

KNCV BRAND GUIDE

KNCV TB PLUS

KNCV TB PLUS

Who we are:

KNCV TB Plus (KNCV) is a global non-profit organisation. Since its establishment in 1903, KNCV's mission has been to save lives and end human suffering through the promotion of health and the global elimination of tuberculosis (TB) and other related diseases.

Our tagline:
KNCV: Together we can end TB.

Our vision:
Healthy people in a world free of TB and other related diseases.

Our mission:
To save lives and end human suffering through the promotion of health and the global elimination of tuberculosis and other related diseases.

Our approach:
We always put people first through innovative, effective, and sustainable strategies that demonstrate positive impact on people's health and accelerate the global decline of TB and other related diseases. In our strategy we aim for system readiness to scale-up through effective interventions for prevention, diagnosis and treatment.

This corporate brand guide provides a brief introduction to, and a description of, KNCV TB Plus' brand identity. The main aim of this guide is to ensure that our brand identity is applied consistently, thereby enhancing the reputation, distinguishing capacity and public profile of our organization.

This brand guide is intended for:

- All KNCV employees/offices
- Third parties who would like to know how to use the KNCV logo and brand identity in their own communications
- Designers and illustrators who produce communication materials for KNCV

1. LOOK & FEEL

The look and feel of KNCV's branding is optimistic, strong and colorful. Our photography plays a leading role and directs the use of colors. In the choice of images, we try to give the disease a human face. We do this in an optimistic. We try to give the disease a human face but try to do this in an optimistic, resilient way without losing sight of reality. We choose an optimistic approach in the Look & feel of our branding not because we underestimate the suffering TB causes, but because we want to emphasize the positive message that it is a curable disease. We show our work, our dedication and our expertise. We are involved, sincere and straightforward. And we show as much as possible our patient-centered approach.

1.1 COLORS

Within our branding we use strong, solid colors. Because of the ‘traditional red’ being the typical KNCV color, we usually stay within the color scheme directed by this red. But also the imagery (which is key within our branding), directs our use of color. So often we pick a color from the leading photograph and let this direct a specific communication outing.

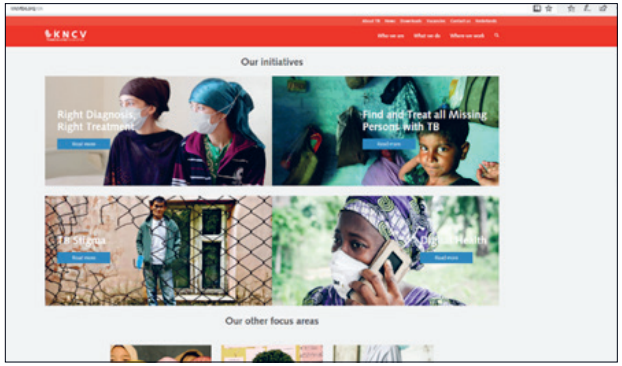

KNCV red directs the color scheme:

1.2 IMAGES

Strong imagery is key within our branding. As mentioned before: our photography plays a leading role and directs the use of colors.

Please note: In a layout the framework of images should have a combination of straight corners (never rounded!).

Photography tips & tricks

Tell a story

When you take a photograph of a specific subject, think of the story you want to tell with it.
Try to depict people the way they are in real life, so don't try to have them pose for the photo – and please avoid things like 'thumbs up'.

Tells a story and no posing

Tells story with fantastic use of elements in environment around him

Tells story with interesting positioning of photographer

Composition

Photographs can be more exciting when the subject is not centered, so play with the framing. If you are not sure just frame it a bit wider – we can always crop the photo. Do make sure you don't cut of feet and heads when you choose a composition. Also avoid heads poking into the photo at the front.

Subject out of center, tells a story and great use of light and color

File size
Submit the photos in the largest format possible. If your e-mail server limits the size of files, use wetransfer.com.

If you are an employee on duty, you are in the best position to take photos of the work we do in the field. In case you would like to take a photo of an individual, you need to obtain written consent from the individual for distribution of the photo with a so-called 'photo consent form'. This form can be found on MyKNCV.

Branding
The photos we use should show who we are. So, when possible, try to brand without it looking to contrived.
We are happy to supply you with KNCV branded materials.

Wearing a KNCV cap

Find colour
Since our branding is quite colorful, also try to find color in your photographs.

Catching the light

Use the light
Natural light always leads to better photos. If possible, use it. See if you can catch the light on the person you've placed central in your photo. Playing with light and shadow can also create intriguing and contrasting photographs in which the atmosphere is just as important as the subject. Try to avoid as much as possible using a flash (also on your smart phone). And try to avoid taking photo's under TL-lights.

1.3 FONTS

Syntax

This is the font used in KNCV TB Plus logo. Syntax is the preferred font for externally printed materials such as brochures and posters. Syntax is also used online. This font is not commonly available on every computer but can be downloaded on MyKNCV.

Fallback font: Calibri
N.B. When Syntax is not available, Calibri is used instead.

2.2 USE OF THE LOGO

KNCV has different versions of the color logo. Depending on background colors always choose the best visibility. The red/black logo is the preferred logo and should be used on all white and light backgrounds. When the use of the red/black logo is impossible, please use the red/white logo instead. Please be aware that the logo always stays visible and readable and that the size of the logo is not too small. In case you have any doubts, please contact us.

Some examples on how to use the logo:

2-pager Childhood TB: Use of red/black logo on white background.

A Story of Hope Timeline booklet: Use of red/black logo on white and light blue background.

KNCV Annual: Black/white logo on a photographic background.

KNCV flyer: Red/white logo on colored backgrounds.

2.3 WHEN TO USE WHICH LOGO FILE?

Digital and print files have their own properties. A JPG file can never be used on a dark or photo background, because the JPG file always has a white background color. Please see the schedule below to see which file to use when.

Jpeg file - has a white background

EPS file or PNG - is transparent, without background color

	For printing		For digital use web/screen
	Offset printing	Digital printing
Color	PMS and CMYK	RGB and CMYK	RGB display colors
Document Type	JPG and PNG	JPG and EPS	JPG and PNG

JPG can be used in any situation if the background on which you want to place the logo is white.

EPS files can be scaled very easily without getting a 'stretched out' logo.

PNG files: this format uses lossless compression and is generally considered the replacement to the GIF image format.

Offset printing is the most commonly used printing technique in which the inked image is transferred (or "offset") from a plate to a rubber blanket, then to the printing surface.

2.4 CO-BRANDING

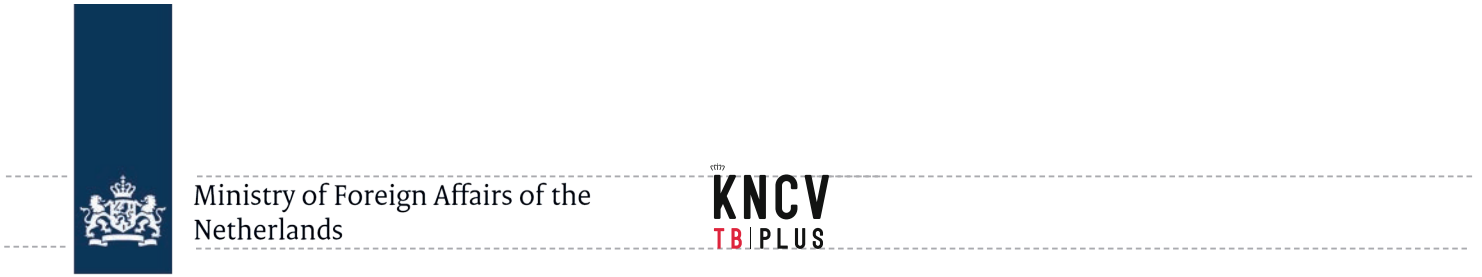

In case of co-branding both KNCV's logo and a partner logo, the logos should be equal optically in size.

N.B.: Government logos always precede the KNCV logo.

3. TEMPLATES
for presentations and other documents

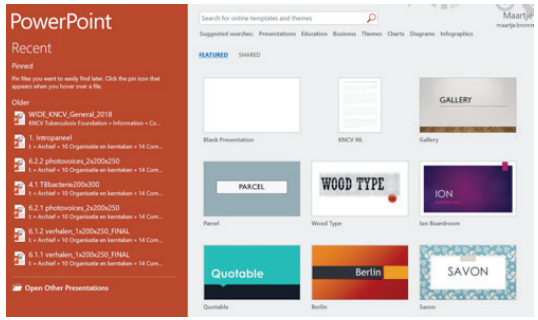

Several documents are available for your presentations. You can find them on My KNCV (KNCV Branding page) but also directly in Powerpoint or Word.

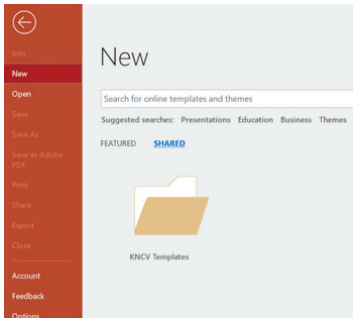

3.1 Powerpoint TEMPLATE

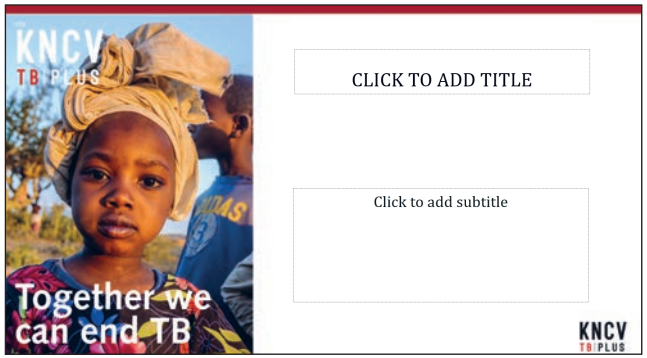

New KNCV Powerpoint templates are available on the KNCV Branding page and in Powerpoint.
The templates are available per initiative and there is also a general template for presentations that do not relate to any initiative in particular. As far as possible we will try to combine a particular color to each initiative (the color on the bar at the top of the presentation).

KNCV Branding Page: all the templates can be found and downloaded under 'Templates'.

Powerpoint: Open Powerpoint → go to shared → and find your KNCV Templates

If you need any help to customize your Word template for a report, you can always contact us. Please send us an image that you would like on top of your report. The logo comes on the left corner at the bottom of the page and is repeated throughout the presentation.
